agents to the extent desired by the committee, and recently failed to answer when called under a subpoena, subsequently questioning the legal right of the investigators to require his presence.

Burns Makes Charges.
William J. Burns, director of the bureau of investigations of the department of justice and close personal friend of Daugherty, appeared Friday as the star witness before the committee.

The testimony dealt chiefly with alleged illegal traffic in whisky and drugs and created a real sensation. Mr. Burns made two direct and serious charges. He stated that an investigation that agents of his bureau had made disclosed the existence of "dope" in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, had been called off at instance of the Rev. Hubert Votaw, brother-in-law of the late President Harding, and superintendent of prisons, at a time when the trial was leading to the men "higher up" who controlled the source of supply. He expressed the firm conviction that had the investigation continued, "the dope" ring would have been smashed.

Agents Called On.
Taking up the whisky deals, Mr. Burns testified that his agents had been called off as he understood it from Attorney General Daugherty, at the request of the treasury department and that this had happened also at a time when, in connection with the investigation of conditions in New York, the trail was leading to "very prominent men."

Vanguard of Season's Tourists Pick Tents in Evansville Camp

Evansville—Continued. Fred Wilder reports that the tourists, coming north from Florida, picked their tents in the tourist camp here Thursday night. They told Mr. Wilder the roads are lined with tourists travelling north.

When Milady Goes a-Shopping

Gorgeous influence started in Paris when everyone started talking about "La Garconne." With this influence began to design clothes for an imaginary girl. From the popularity of these modes came the buying man influencing spring fashions.

America's girls will be boys. Career of the tailored suit has just begun and so popular has it become over night that where ever Mary goes, the boyish suit is sure to go. It even finds itself at the smartest of tents, but is it any wonder when there are created such clever suits. There are just three general types of these tailored suits in vogue this season and Dostwick's have a splendid representation of each. Essentially they are all alike in style, varying only in such details as their cuff link, single button fastening, or double button fastening. Most of the material, four button effects, Marceller's have a variety of colored novelty tweeds, made very simply for general utility wear, to the high-line stripes or the dressy, lustrous charmeuse in navy or port color. Some are bound with silk braid, all have the tailored notched lapels, and many the series of three, either cut in or flap pockets to give them their style. The watch fob and gardenia boutonniere are the frivolous touches which relieve the severity of the mannish tailoring. Occasionally, I saw among those suits at Dostwick's, a white vest of pique or silk contributing an air of vivacious smartness, but more often it is only the binding of white around the inside of the collar which contrasts with the dark material. The skirts, by the way, are all plain of the wrap around style with two cut-in pockets.

After weeks and weeks of waiting, we are all aflutter over the announcement that Spring is to be officially ushered in by the spring fashion exposition to be held at next week at Dostwick's. It isn't mere idle curiosity to want to know what is being worn in footwear this season. It is a duty for we must look our best if we are to keep our place in society and—well, and incidentally hold our own in the interest. I am not permitted to tell you all about what will be shown there but I can just give you a gentle hint, that a deep into a few of the highlights of the event, assured me that the very smartest shoes and hosiery of the house will be on display at this time. Hosiery is becoming sheerer and more sheer is it not? And the shades are more alluring than ever. There will be navy blue, black, and black to complete the dressy appearance of Colonial Black Satin hose. There are eye-catching new arrivals in the colored Mail Jong and Hollywood Sandals, which come in the popular blue, red and green. A preference for this type of footwear has been borne out by its general comfort and becomingness. Everything is all set, ready to go, in fact the entire store has been redecorated for this particular occasion, so it will be worth your while to be on hand and ask to see these especially good looking things.

For ages, poets—men poets—have sung of the beauties of spring in trees and flowers, and all the while, women always knew that the real fascination lies elsewhere, for what would spring be to a woman without the alluring new styles and exquisitely colored materials? Whatever else she may want she cannot dodge the need of one or more linen dresses and I want to tell you that in my quest for attractive linens I found, by far the finest selection of colors of high quality Irish Linens, at J. C. Penney & Co. They have twelve different colors, all of which are beautiful shades and they are shrunken from forty-six inches down to thirty-six, so that one may be perfectly safe in making them up without shrinkage. The material is so fine and even, the weave is so beautiful, that with such a dress, trimmings are unnecessary—the material is the thing. A touch of hand drawn work, a bit of embroidery transforms a perfectly simple linen frock into a charming summer gown. Here are some of the shades which J. C. Penney Co. carry in the fine quality of linen which they sell for only eighty-nine cents a yard—still pink, beige, wood brown, sage green, light green, light blue, heliotrope, blue, tangerine, apple green and white. Last year when Penney's had this same quality of linen, they were unable to keep it in stock for any length of time, the shades were so popular, so my advice to girls, would be to make a dash down to Penney's for a linen dress, while the selection is so complete.

Most of its date on having a crisp, freshly ironed blouse or necktie put on at a moment's notice, yet this is often impossible. If we have to depend entirely upon a blouse to always have them there, it is no trick to make a dash down to Penney's for a blouse, while the selection is so complete.

Days grow warmer, our feet grow tender and our throats are sore. We need hours of strenuous shopping. We crave something cool and refreshing and naturally enough, our thoughts turn to Razook's, for there, they will have everything that just touches the spot. Even if you do not happen to be one of these mated to the first class, on the moon card is—what's the word?—a champagne bottle under one arm, and we immediately order one, all agree to know what it could be. The first class, right on the top of the low crowd, is the champagne bottle under one arm, and we immediately order one, all agree to know what it could be. The first class, right on the top of the low crowd, is the champagne bottle under one arm, and we immediately order one, all agree to know what it could be.

The time of this little story I am going to tell you, is blue Monday; the place is a dingy laundry room, and the principal character, a typical American housewife, disconsolate as she contemplates that day of tedious labor over the old-fashioned wash board and wringer, which she sits thus thinking, "How this is rolled in a Federal Electric Washer, which looked more like a beautiful white enamel kitchen table to her, but as she looked, she beheld her clothes being perfectly cleaned, while the water and soapy suds went gushing through them in wave-like action. The wooden tubber was protecting her dainty first garments from the indignity of this surprised housewife, so this surprised housewife sat by and watched the magic work. She could not believe her eyes when she saw Kilewatt which she had always thought the wringer without asking her to lend a hand to the operation. This little housewife felt that this Cinderella, indeed, living in a modern fairy tale, when she realized her clothes were all ready to hang upon the line, white as snow, and all within a couple of hours, when she had always thought the wringer without asking her to lend a hand to the operation. All Radio Sets Are Not Alike

Before we will recommend a Radio Receiving Set to the public, we take it under local conditions. It must measure up to exacting standards for clarity, volume and ease of operation.

It is not necessary for you to try a dozen different sets to find out which one is the right one. We take all of the inconvenience out of buying the correct radio set for you.

We are jealous of our reputation and you may be sure we will not make a statement about any radio set we sell that is not absolutely true. This insures your satisfaction.

OUR SERVICE WAS ESTABLISHED FOR YOU. WE WANT YOU TO USE IT.

Oil Stockholders

Saved Large Sum

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Milwaukee — Stockholders of the M. T. C. Oil and Gas company and the M. T. C. Oil and Gas company have been saved $81,500 by the report of O. J. After, special master appointed to determine the claims of the receivers and sollicitors of the two companies, according to William Seyler, president of the William Seyler company, which acted as fiscal agents for both corporations up to the time when they were placed in the hands of receivers.

The report was made in the district court of the United States for the district of Kansas, third division, located at Kansas City.

The sollicitors and receivers had asked for additional fees of $85,000 for their work in handling the affairs of the two companies, but the court has allowed them only $12,500 in addition to what they have already received. The balance is saved to the companies.

Mr. Seyler stated on Thursday that the $81,500 can be paid by the companies if they conclude that the amount is justified.

Stocks Correct
Weak Position by Upward Trend

New York.—Virtually all financial and commodity markets showed up-ward this week. The recovery in stock prices generally was characterized as a correction of weakened technical position after the recent long decline. Buying power was limited and came largely from the short interests who were hurried in to covering their commitments by the brighter prospects for early action on the tax reduction bill and the possibility of a favorable recovery report, which is expected within the next few days.

Investment buying was noted, however, in the railroad shares, which assumed the leadership of the market for the first time in months. This was predicted on the unusually good February earnings statements and the expressed opinion of interstate commerce commissioner Elwell before the congressional committee that a revision in freight rates would be disastrous to business and that rates should not be altered to meet price fluctuations.

Trade reports showed further indications of a slackening of business in many lines although March import production was believed to have reached the peak of last April. Domestic oil production continued to decline while consumption was steadily increased, but the only important price alteration was a further advance in Gulf Coast crude prices.

Industrial activity moved up in the early part of the week but became sluggish later when speculative interests were diverted to the rail group. Temporary strength of the copper shares was based on increased expectation of an increased European demand.

Further recovery of French and Belgian francs featured the foreign exchange market. The French franc crossed 6 cents to a new 1924 high on Tuesday and the Belgian franc rose to a new high. The dollar was steady at the end of the month.

FINANCE

New York.—Railroad shares developed pronounced strength in today's active session of the market, but the rest of the list showed considerable irregularity.

New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, which advanced 1/2 cent to 10 1/2, was the individual feature, dividing speculative interest in the rail group, with Norfolk and Western, which advanced 1/4 cent to 10 1/4. Both were heavily bought on expectation that the improved weather conditions would stimulate the demand for gasoline. General Electric, Chandler American and Baldwin were conspicuously weak, selling of these issues eventually bringing about unsettlement in other parts of the list.

After a sharp advance in the first session of the week, the market for steel closed with a new low level for the year, the preferred breaking four.

The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 500,000 shares.

Liberty Bonds.—New York.—First 4 1/2, second 4 1/4, third 4 1/4, fourth 4 1/4, fifth 4 1/4, sixth 4 1/4, seventh 4 1/4, eighth 4 1/4, ninth 4 1/4, tenth 4 1/4.

COTTON MARKET.—New York.—Cotton spot steady; middling 36.75.

BANK CONDITION.—New York.—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows a deficit in reserve of $115,490. This is a decrease of $36,213,310.

COMMITTEE WILL PUSH NEW SCHOOL

Representative Jefferson Citizens Are Named by Board President.

Jefferson—A citizen's committee of 17, to assist the board of education in planning a new high school building to replace the one destroyed by fire, was appointed Friday by George J. Kiepert, president of the board. The committee is composed of Edward Copeland, chairman; Mrs. Irving Kiepert, Mrs. H. H. Kafer, T. R. Spooner, William Frank, Joseph Steppenhack, Charles Blenfang, William Herz, Mrs. E. A. Schwegler, Lynn H. Smith, Charles Stengel, Frank Louis, Carl Seifert, Otto J. Kerchensteiner, Albert Henry, John Verhalen and Alfred Hellemann.

The proposition of planning for a new high school building is one of such importance that I feel the board of education should have the assistance of representatives and capable citizens of the community," Mr. Kiepert declared in a letter to the members, informing them of their appointment. "This committee will meet with the board of education and share in the responsibility of the building program."

Settlement for the loss on the building will be made for the full amount of insurance carried by the city, Mr. Kiepert announced. The insurance adjusters have completed their work here. The adjusters were R. E. Repinger, Joseph P. Schiffer and George G. Williams, all of Milwaukee.

For many meetings and social gatherings of groups that have no direct connection with the Y. W. except in the sense that the association belongs to all women and girls who care to use its facilities in any way whatever.

Volunteer Service

No less than 100 girls and women give a considerable measure of volunteer service through their work as board and committee members. It is because of such service that the Y. W. can accomplish what it does with an employed staff of but three secretaries. One of these, the community girls' work secretary, receives a large portion of her salary from the Lovejoy Memorial Fund, so that the budget to be raised the coming week covers the full salaries of but two workers and $200 of the third worker's compensation.

The budget in detail is as follows:

Business and Professional

The Business and Professional Woman's club was organized last fall and has a membership of 75, though some meetings held bi-weekly often have many more than this number in attendance. Educational classes have enrolled 44 girls and women this past winter, although public night school classes have removed the need for as many of this kind of work as was formerly offered. Bible classes conducted on a non-sectarian basis have enrolled 76 girls and women this winter.

time. A number of vocational talks of far-reaching significance have been given this year at the high school while many worth while programs have been furnished by Girl Reserves for high school assembly periods. Leadership is being trained through the club work that will bear fruit for years to come in this and other communities.

The positive health program for which the Y. W. C. A. stands has been stressed this past week through a series of special events and no department of the association benefits a larger number of individuals in a practical way than does the health education department. The results show statistics as follows: girls and women in gym classes, 98; swimming classes, 265; basketball league, 42; basketball league, 80; tennis tournament, 22; fishing club, 19. The Athletic Association has a membership of 69 girls who take an active part in determining and executing the health education program of the Y. W.

Check "Gas" Used by Fire Trucks

Official notice has been given Chief J. Murphy by the city manager that in the future it will be necessary to keep an accurate record of the amount of gasoline and oil used in each truck and car of the fire department, the same as is now being done with other city cars. Complete records of each machine, including the mileage shown by the speedometer, will be kept to be checked against the amount of gasoline used. As soon as the fire department's present amount of expensive gasoline is exhausted, it is planned to fill the tanks at regular intervals with gasoline from the city's new 12,000-gallon tank.

FROM MINER'S COTTAGE TO CASTLE BRITISH LABORITE'S RISE

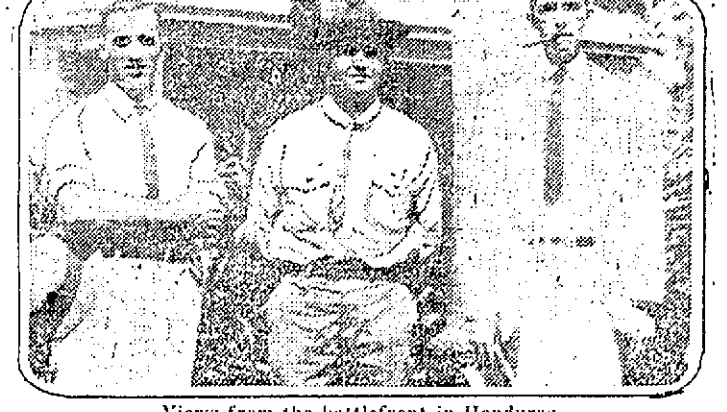

The office of lord high commissioner to the Church of Scotland, for two and a half centuries held only by select members of the Scottish nobility, is now occupied by James Brown, coal miner, member of parliament, appointee of the MacDonald Labor government. One of the requisites of the office is occupancy of the magnificent Holyrood palace during the general assembly of the Church of Scotland. In his occupancy, about three weeks, Mrs. Brown is entitled to be addressed "Her Grace" and Brown is entitled to a gun salute. The real home of the Browns is a cottage of two rooms and a kitchen, for which they pay rental of $50 a year.

FORCES GUARDING AMERICAN INTERESTS IN HONDURAS AS REVOLT CONTINUES

Views from the battlefield in Honduras.

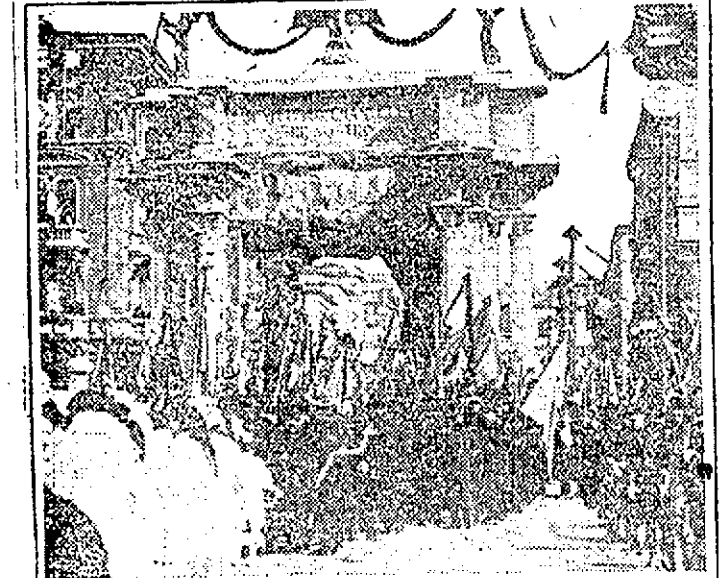

While Honduran rebels are endeavoring to install their choice for president in the chief executive's mansion, American forces are keeping a watching eye on the fighting to protect American lives and property. These photos were taken by the photographer of the U. S. S. Denver and show (above) American troops on guard at the U. S. consulate in Puerto Cortez, and (below) three members of the party which landed to aid imperilled Americans, (left to right), William Francis of Los Angeles, Lieut. Cartwright, commander, and C. A. Corrigan of Cincinnati.

FORTUNE MAY BE SPENT ON MILADY'S LINGERIE

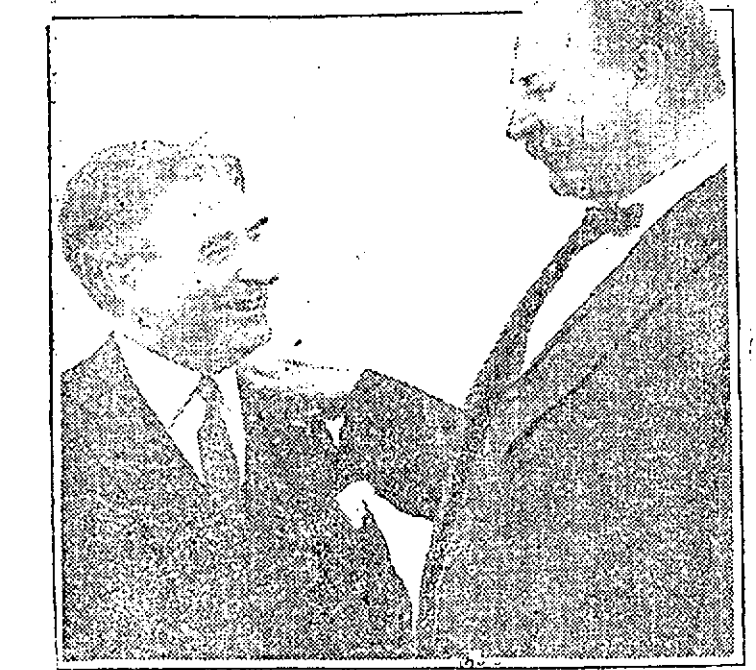

Whenever one is inclined to refute the charges of extravagance so often aimed at the modern girl one has a vision of the underthings which she finds necessary to her costuming. From hobbled head to dainty toe even the "poor working girl" feels she must be clothed in silk. Here are some illustrations of the exquisite things the shops are showing to tempt the shekels from milady's purse. On the left a "step-in" of orchid chiffon trimmed with point de Venise and shadow lace insertion. Another "step-in" on the same order and color but this time fashioned of crepe is shown on the right. It has a narrow sash tied in front which distinguishes it from the one on the left. The popular "nude" silk hose are pictured in the center.

TO THE VICTOR BELONG THE SPOILS, SO ITALY'S RULER ACCEPTS FIUME

Below, King Emmanuel, left, greeting General Giardina, military governor of Fiume, on arrival at dock. Below, black-shirted Fascists parading through triumphal arch in heart of Fiume during ceremonies attending acceptance of territory by the king. The final chapter in the Fiume episode, caused by Gabriel D'Annunzio's coupe, was written recently when King Victor Emmanuel of Italy sailed to the harbor of the disputed territory and officially accepted it in the name of Italy after all annexation details had been completed through General Giardina, military governor of the territory. D'Annunzio, with a handful of followers, seized the territory a few years ago, "to preserve Italy's national honor" when the treaty of Versailles created Fiume an international province under joint protectorate. The post-fighter's move threatened for a time to provoke international complications.

In Washington they say that the probable running mates at the head of the Democratic national ticket will be Samuel M. Ralston of Indiana and Royall S. Copeland of New York. Such a team is sure of the New York and Indiana delegations, and is considered strong enough to win enough of the other states to swing the convention. Both are senators. Ralston was formerly governor of Indiana, and Copeland is a physician and former health commissioner of Cincinnati and New York.

WAITING FOR WORD THAT MADE THEM NEW CARDINALS

The photos above are the last taken of America's two newly elevated cardinals before they received the red hat at the recent consistory. The two, George W. Mundelein of Chicago and Patrick J. Hayes of the New York diocese, then archbishops, were summoned to Rome to await the official notification of the honor and receive the vestments of their office.

MAPLE SYRUP TIME WITH ITS LURE IS HERE AGAIN

Collecting and boiling the sap in the maple sugar camp.

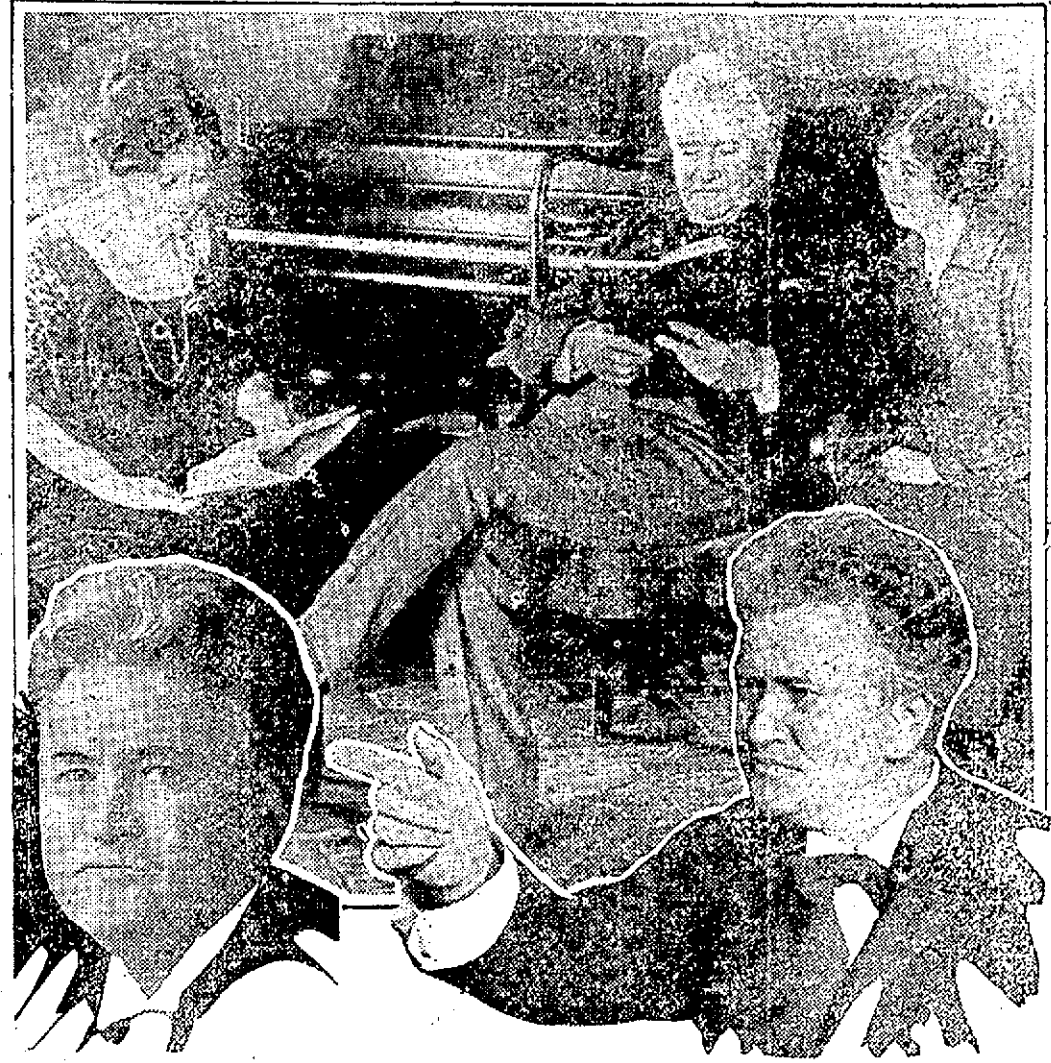

Maple syrup time is in full swing now and the maple sap, seemingly sweeter than last year, is running heavy. Reports indicate the yield will be bigger than last season. In the eastern townships of Quebec, Can., said to be the finest and largest maple sugar district in the world, the 1920 production of syrup and sugar amounted to 26,717, 937 pounds, which was more than the amount produced by all the rest of Canada. This year the output will exceed that amount, it is believed. This is taken as indicative of the general situation.

WEALTHIEST BABY IN ALL ENGLAND MAY HAVE WALES FOR HIS GODFATHER

England's richest baby is nameless. She is the infant daughter of Lady Mountbatten, Great Britain's wealthiest woman, who is awaiting word from her husband, now with the British fleet in the Mediterranean, before christening it. Royal gifts are pouring in on the infant, whose mother was the heir of Sir Ernest Cassel, the Rockefeller of England. The Prince of Wales probably will be a godfather of the little girl. Lord Mountbatten, who is a relative of the royal family, was formerly aide of the prince and is one of his closest friends.

How to Check Up Condition of the Battery

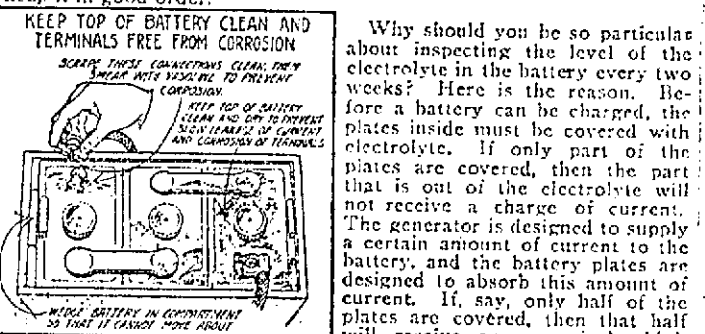

If you have your battery supplied with distilled water at regular intervals, and have it fixed in its compartment so that it cannot jolt about or vibrate, the probability is that all the attention it will require is to see that the top of the battery case is clean and the terminal connections are not corroded.

Keep the top of the battery clean at all times, for if dirt, acid or moisture are allowed to collect, it will, in addition to corroding the terminals, cause a slight leakage of current which will gradually run down the battery.

Remove and scrape the terminals bright and clean, then rub a little vasoline over them to stop corroding. If the terminals become corroded, they make a high resistance joint which prevents the battery from delivering its full amperage to the starter or lights. If you find the battery is fully charged, yet the starter operates very sluggishly, examine the connections and contacts on the starting motor switch. If they are badly burned or dirty, clean them with a piece of sand paper.

If, however, you have been in the habit of inspecting the level of the electrolyte in the battery only when you found the starter would not operate properly, or when you notice that the lights become dim, then it is quite possible that the battery is badly sulphated and you will have to secure the services of a competent battery repair man to put it in good condition.

Most batteries, with proper care, will give perfect service for from two to three years. If you have trouble with your battery in less than this time, then it is probably caused by neglect to give it proper attention. In this article I will tell you just what attention it requires to keep it in good order.

Why should you be so particular about inspecting the level of the electrolyte in the battery every two weeks? Here is the reason. Before a battery can be charged, the plates inside must be covered with electrolyte. If only part of the plates are covered, then the part that is out of the electrolyte will not receive a charge of current. The generator is designed to supply a certain amount of current to the battery, and the battery plates are designed to absorb this amount of current. If, say, only half of the plates are covered, then that half will receive an excessively high charge which will cause them to heat up, warp and buckle, while the part of the plates out of the electrolyte will sulphate and soon refuse to hold a charge, even although they are afterwards covered with electrolyte. You can readily see, therefore, how important it is that you supply the battery with distilled water REGULARLY.

Before you add water to the cells, they should be tested with the hydrometer to see that the battery is fully charged. To do this, remove vent caps, insert the rubber tube in a cell, then squeeze the bulb and release it slowly, allowing enough electrolyte to be drawn into the hydrometer to float the graduated stem. If the battery is fully charged, the float will rise to between the 1.300 and the 1.280 marks in each cell. If it reads as low as 1.250, do not use the electric starter or the lights until you have given the battery a chance to recover itself. If the reading is 1.225 or less, take it to a battery station at once and have it charged up, for if it is left in a partly discharged condition for very long, the plates will sulphate rapidly and the life of the battery consequently reduced.

The battery should be examined every two weeks, and enough PURE DISTILLED WATER added to each cell to bring the level of the electrolyte up to 1/4" above the top of the plates. Do not on any account use city water or water that has been kept in a metal container.

A very important point is to see that the battery is firmly fixed in its compartment. If it is jolted about, the lead composition in the plates becomes loose and causes serious trouble. If you make sure that the battery is firmly wedged in place, kept clean and free from spilt acid, and enough distilled water always kept in the cells to cover the plates, you will find that battery trouble will never worry you.

Transmuting Modern Science into Local Car Performance

THE amazing improvements in 1924 automobiles will be realized by the car owner in largest measure only when delivered and backed by a good, dependable local dealer.

The local dealer is the source of all local satisfaction in car ownership. His understanding of the needs of the car owner and his ability to meet them define the scope of local car performance.

Those who buy Studebakers here in 1924 will happily realize the value of local dealer responsibility.

Early Wisconsin

When the French explorers came to the territory of Wisconsin they found among the Indians some who intimated to the visitors that for a specified premium, which generally conformed to the ability of the prospect to pay, a safe voyage through their domain would be insured. The inference was emphatic that in the absence of such insurance the travelers proceeded at their own peril. There was not much system or organization to these primitive practices, but there was tremendous efficiency!

More than 200 years later, however, life insurance was reduced to a science and there was organized in this former French province, a life insurance company which has developed into the largest and most prominent financial and fiduciary institution west of the Alleghany Mountains.

The Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company was chartered by special act of the Wisconsin legislature. It began business in 1858 with 69 policyholders and $200,000 of insurance in force. On the first day of January 1924, it had $25,147 policies outstanding, involving insurance of about two billion seven hundred million dollars!

Since its organization the company has paid to policyholders nine hundred and twenty-three million dollars and it still holds, under the requirements of Wisconsin law, more than five hundred million dollars for them.

The Northwestern confines its operations exclusively to the healthful portions of the Union and it does no foreign business.

It has more than 48,500 citizens of the State of Wisconsin on its list of policyholders and being a mutual company, these policyholders are intimately and directly affected by anything which affects the interests of the company.

The Northwestern gives employment to about 2,000 Wisconsin citizens in this state, and it annually expends hundreds of thousands of dollars in Wisconsin for salaries and supplies. It has just paid the state $561,000 in taxes for the privilege of doing business in Wisconsin for one year—a sum which is nearly one-third the total taxes paid by the company in all the other states and the national government, combined.

The by-laws of the company provide for the annual appointment of a committee of its policyholders who shall not be trustees, officers, junior officers, agents or employees, to examine into its affairs, transactions, records, books, assets and securities. The committee last appointed, and which reported on January 25, 1924, consisted of four policyholders, two of whom were citizens of Wisconsin, Thomas H. Gill, of Milwaukee, and Senator Max W. Heck, of Racine, the latter being nominated by the Hon. W. Stanley Smith, Insurance Commissioner of Wisconsin. Senator Heck acted as Secretary of the Committee.

Its conclusions were as follows:

"Our examination convinces us that the management is entirely efficient and fully abreast of the most advanced of its competitors; that, consequently, the various policy forms are liberal and equitable, the rates reasonable, the treatment of all policyholders uniform, purchases and security of investments safeguarded, all assets conserved, death claims promptly paid, litigation negligible, pensions commendable and all branches of the business most economically conducted. The volume and quality of the risks, the surplus earnings and savings are growing healthfully, and we believe the great object of the corporation as a guardian and conservator for public benefit is fully realized."

The Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company was organized to SERVE—to serve men who appreciate the necessity of protecting themselves, their families and their estates. It issues modern life insurance policies to meet all the requirements of protection at the lowest possible net cost. It has general agencies in Milwaukee, Racine, Madison, Hudson and Oshkosh, and agencies in every other locality of the state, where free, frank and full information will be given cheerfully to those who want to know about its policy contracts. The End of the Rainbow

"THERE'S a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow", we used to be told as children. What a fascinating thought it was. How eagerly we waited until the beautiful phenomenon showed itself athwart the sky, and how we speculated on how far away the end of it might be, with a secret intention of setting out and securing the much-desired treasure before any of our companions might find it.

PLAN NO. 2489

This week we are featuring what is conceded to be one of the most attractive chalet aerophone homes ever created; the large front and side porch with entrances to both the living room and front bed room is a distinct feature, as is also the spacious sleeping porch above.

A careful study of the floor plan arrangement will show ideal location and division of the rooms in which all modern labor and time-saving conveniences are included, and altogether this represents a home which we are sure you will appreciate the opportunity of becoming familiar with, and if there is any additional information you would care to receive it will be gladly given by addressing the Home Building Editor, this paper.

What boy or girl is there who has not at some time started down the road or across the fields with the desire to reach the rainbow's end? But no matter how far we traveled, the end of the rainbow seemed just as far away; and suddenly the extremities had disappeared from view and soon afterward the whole beautiful symbol faded from our sight.

As we grow older we come to realize that the story of the pot of gold at the rainbow's end is a parable of life; that beauty, grandeur, everything, is a reality in the making, needing only persevering, insistent, intelligent application on our part to transform our desires into happiness, contentment and that most valuable of all possessions—a HOME.

Not for the fearful and faltering is the "pot of gold" which takes the form of a heaven on earth. When the appearance of the bow begins to fade, it takes courage to realize that it is just as real when invisible as when stretching brilliantly across the arch of the sky—for the rainbow is the path of life when well lived, and it invariably leads to treasures illimitable.

Have you found your "pot of gold" yet? Have you built a home of your own, where you and your loved ones can be happy together and live peacefully and successfully?

Let's look at this matter for a moment. You are now paying rent—so much a month. At the end of a decade you may have preserved your 120 rent receipts, but you do not rent a safe deposit box in order to keep them safely. They are of no value to you—they represent only lost efforts. Suppose you had put the same amount monthly into the purchase of a little home. You would now have your deed to the property, clear of incumbrance; which would represent worth while accomplishments in addition to the inexpressible joy, and comfort you had experienced while acquiring it.

Home means more to your boy, your girl and to your wife than it does to you; it's their refuge, where all pleasure and sorrows are enjoyed and soothed. Your home inspires your boy and girl to better life planning, to higher character ideals, to thrift and honesty and healthfulness and ambition. What a wonderful array of virtues a HOME generates in the breasts of those who dwell in it.

Now is a good time for YOU to make the start on the real journey to the end of the rainbow—not the childish conception of what proved a fairy tale, but the enterprise which inevitably brings success. To the child there is but one rainbow, and only one pot of gold. To manhood and womanhood is revealed the secret that there is one for every human being; that he or she can profit by this knowledge if determination is backed by consistent efforts.

Here in this city are many successful men and business leaders who have followed the path and found their "pot of gold" in the form of a home. They stand ready to aid and encourage you as you start on a like quest. They have retained the services of experts to advise you and are themselves spending their money in making this series of home-building articles possible in order to inspire you to real productive manhood. The "Home Building Editor" will gladly answer inquiries and give you competent information on any department of Home Building you seek.
